HOME TESTIMONY.

Mt. GILEAD, MORROW Co., O., \ March 29, 1859.

DR. C. W. ROBACK, Dear Sir:-I have been afflicted, during the last six years with general debility, no particular disease, but general prostration. I procured of your agent here, Mr. Enos Miles, some of your Scandinavian Blood Purifier and Blood Pills, and have been using them during the last four or five months, in this manner: I take the Purifier in the morning, and when I feel worse than usual, one Pill at night, and am now in better health than for the last six years. I have used various medicines in that time, all to no purpose. I now use the HARDWARE & SADDLERY Pills in my family, and think they are the best family medicine I ever used.

WINDLESS RAIN, -- (AUTUMN.) BY PAUL II. HAYNE.

The rain, the desolate rain! Censeless and selemn and chill! How it drips on the misty pane, flow it drenches the darkened sill O scene of sorrow and dearth! I would that the wind awaking To a fierce and gusty birth, Might vary this dull refrain

Of the rain, the desolate rain; For the heart of heaven seems breaking In tears o'er the fallen earth, And again, again, again We list to the somber strain, The faint, cold monotone-Whose soul is a mystic nonn-Of the rain, the mournful rain, The soft, despairing rain !

The rain, the marmarous rain! Weary, passionless, slow, 'Tis the rhythm of settled sorrow, Tis the solbing of cureless wee! And all the tragic of life, The paties of long ago, Comes back on the sad refrain
Of the rain, the dieary rain.
"Till the graves in my heart unclose.
And the dead who are buried there From a solemn and welld repose A wake-but with eyeballs drear, And voices that melt in pain On the tide of the plaintive rain, The yearning hopeless raie, The lengt low whispering rain?

I Have Stopped Your Paper. The following anecdote, told by a Philladelphia paper, is decidedly suggestive: "Many years ago, Mr. Swain, then editor of the Public Led ger, was hailed at the corner of Eighteenth and Chestnut Sts by a very excited individual, who informed him, in the most stopped your paper, sir," and proceeded to explain the why and wherefore, all the time gesticulating wildly. "Gracious, sir, you can't say so. Come with me to the office, and let us see if we can not remedy the matter. It grieves me that any one should stop my paper." Arriving at the office Mr. Swain said, "Why my dear sir, everything seems to be going on here:as usual; I thought you had stopped my paper." Then and there the excited gentleman wlom the long walk had by that time partly cooled, said that he had stopped taking his one copy of the Ledger. Mr. S vain vas profuse in his apologies for having misunderstood the meaning of his late subscriber's word, and regretted that he had given him the tramp from Eighteenth street to Third. The gentleman went on his way home, a wiser if not a better man. Before he lett, however, he ordered that the Ledger be still sent to Lis ad-

THE "Lounger" of the London Illustrated Times says:-"By the way, speaking of waterproofs, I think I can give travelers a valuble hint or two. For many years I have worn clear; then pour it off into an. other bucket, and put the gar ment therein, and let it be in for twenty-four hours, and then hang it up to dry without wringing it. Two of my party -a lady and a gentlemanhave worn garments thus treat ed in the wildest storms of wind and rain without getting wet. The rain hangs upon the cloth in globules. In short, they were really waterproof. -The gentleman, a fortnight ago, waiked nine miles in a storm of rain and wind, such as you rarely seem the South, and when he slipped off his overcoat his underclothes were as dry as when he put them on.

This is, I think, a secret worth

The Hannibal Courier save that not long since a party was given near that place, when a mischievous young woman thought to enjoy the fun to be derived from passing herself off as a young man from a strange locality. But the male portion of the party penetrated the disguise, and immediately set their wits to work to have a little sport over the af fair. It seems that a horse had been stolen in the neighbor hood, and they caused the report to be whispered about. taking good care the disguised woman should hear of it. Fi nally, the report that the thief was probably in the room went the rounds; the young lady was pointed out, and a cry was set up, "There he is now." Re volvers were drawn in an in stant, and the lady presuming the men were really serious sprang but of the room and ran furiously for home. The pi-tols were fired in the nir, and the lugitive, fearing the next shot might prove fatal, pulled off her cap, let down her hair, and screamed at every jump, "I'm a woman; don't you
